Mission:

Secure state

The mission of the Internal Security Agency is founded on a clear principle: national security is our highest priority.

A resilient and secure state is not merely a declaration - it is a goal that we pursue through professional, responsible and effective action.

Our mission goes beyond the traditional understanding of a country's internal security. In today's world, threats know no borders and are taking on increasingly complex forms - from cyberattacks to destabilising hybrid activities. That is why we act wherever the integrity of our state is at risk.

We operate on multiple fronts: detecting and countering hostile activities by foreign states and organisations, protecting state secrets, and safeguarding Poland's strategic economic interests.

An essential element of our work is international cooperation. It enables us to operate in a globally coordinated manner - whilst preserving sovereignty and protecting Polish interests.
