Publishing House

https://www.abw.gov.pl/pub/internal-security-review/mission-and-objectives/4,Mission-and-objectives.html
06.11.2026, 13:42

The Internal Security Agency, as an institution responsible for the protection of the internal security of the state, has for many years been taking steps to popularize the broadly understood security issues, including both education and the exchange of scientific ideas. As part of these activities, the Internal Security Agency publishes the scientific journal “Internal Security Review” and other publications devoted to history and achievements of the Polish secret services, which are published thanks to the cooperation with eminent experts in the fields of security – academics from universities, scientific institutions and research centers as well as representatives of other uniformed services. Our goal is to promote the knowledge which makes it easier to understand the problems and threats of the modern world as well as the challenges faced by the entities responsible for the security of the state.